If you apes could just stop posting your brokers and your positions. That'd be great. One or the fucking other. Also..don't post about one and then post about the other. That'd be great as well.

There are plenty of write ups and your question has been asked/answered. If that's not enough I encourage to reach out to your broker or sort through your emails. The best thing that you can do if you have a question about your broker is to call and speak to a live person. If you can get into an office to see someone..DO SO. This is fine print time..alright. It's time for you to read the agreements. Understand your apps, your broker, your options, your protections.

A lot of you are driving yourselves mad with simple questions and hypotheticals. I know..it's a lot to understand and keep track of.

The best answers and/or advice which you also find will be the most difficult to accept and do: HOLD Stay. YOUR. Course.

But please stop giving away projections for free.

They are Hedge Funds. To you and to every Ape holding at least 1s in GME or any other stonk.

Everyday it's YOU vs. the entire market. Your tools versus the tools of others. Be it hedge funds or Bob next door.

If you've never considered what YOU could do if you had the same ability, reach, and tools that a hedge fund manager has..then have you ever seriously considered making at least $1M as an individual trader or investor? Seriously.

We can joke and meme at the expense of the HFs..but to underestimate..never.

I'm sure that they do know. I won't go into that(again).

Maybe this will help you:

At some point in the future..could be near.

Held Long shares will need to be accounted for for. Doesn't matter who they are held by. Those held shares will need to be separated into different categories.

Outstanding/Available shares will be accounted for.

All short shares(to include synthetic) All short shares separated and organized.

What we know:

The shares that you buy are considered "real". The shares that you hold are considered "real". The shares CURRENTLY being shorted are not.

In order to get a proper accounting of those shares something has to happen(I assume by now apes know what that is). The actual value of each share depends upon other events, information, and calculations. Since none of us have access to that software, we won't know until those who have access know. Ya know?

Until then we have speculation..on all sides.

Facts: GME was shorted, that shorting was exposed, the market reacted. Those who are shorting are long in their mindset. Nothing wrong with that..that's the game.

But..like any of us have learned from being burned on a bad trade..you've eventually gotta take your loses and move on. Or HOLD.

Who really has diamond hands? The apes or the Melvies? That's what we're all going to find out. Before other apes bash me with bananas We as in the whole picture

What you're seeing from apes and Melvies when it comes to DD vs. FUD is the battle ground stopped us(individuals) yet.

The only guarantee in this event is that the IRS taxing the fuck out of the winning hand either way.

Please understand this: when the "Hedgies" send one another an email/text/(haven't found the r/Citadel subreddit yet) non of us get to see what they are saying about us! What their strategic plan is every morning to combat retail and fight another day. There is no transparency of their thoughts and positions for getting out of position; borrowing more shares; utilizing more dark pool resources, meeting with Congressional staffers to work out or negotiate a resolution. However, retailers sit here and ENDLESSLY FLEY THEMSELVES OUT LIKE AN AUTOPSY OF A TEN CAR PILE UP IN A REALLY REALLY BAD QUINCY EPISODE MIXED WITH ABBOTT AND COSTELLO's Who's on First.

All you need to do is google www.citadel.com And find careers. Or any hedge Fund office careers site. Such as Blackrock. Look at who and how they recruit their PHD candidates out of school then train them to trade; to program algorithmic computer coding strategies and the entire teams they put together for blitz warfare attack shilling. These employees start out at low 7 figure incomes working long hours chained to their desk and in serious campaign warfare mode. I'm from the government and this is my observation and I'm just trying to help. Please don't shoot the messenger

Fully agreed.

Even if you ask me about your broker and we have the same broker, my broker has at least 5 types of accounts, and has three different apps to trade with in the app store. Time to do your own research.

You might be severely underestimating HFs's ability & knowledge of the market. They have access to professional tools and terminals.

You think they wouldn't know exactly how many shares are controlled by retail? I'm sure they have all hands on deck cross referencing amongst themselves exactly how many shares institutions hold.

From there they absolutely know 100% exactly how much Apes have.

& even if they couldn't do that. I'm sure they would have already combed through the subreddits and get the data.

If anything wouldn't estimating how many shares retail has be in our advantage. If we figure out that retail owns anywhere between 75% - over 100% of the float (that should exist) we know they are completely and utterly fucked beyond any recovery.

We know that HODL & BUY is the way to go. We can literally ignore all FUD at that point because we know there's nothing they can do to loosen the vice grip other than scare the paper hands TLDR: I think Apes already own enough shares to guarantee a squeeze. I think there are so many synthetics out there that Apes own over 100% of what should be the float.

I mean - agreed. What do you think payment for order flow is... even if they got to the game late, the more we trade, the better they understand what we own.
