Buy/Hold. We're staying above the 120 floor. I got in at $45.95. No way I'm selling.

I've averaged down to $125.80. I'm happy and the trend looks very good.

Do you know the word FLAK? It is the hits of ammunition that pelt an aircraft when anti-aircraft guns are trying to shoot them out of the sky. In war, the saying goes that when you're catching flak, it means you are flying over the target.

True. But it's boring and repetitive. You'd figure that somebody would ante up for better bots and fillers. It's like they're scrapping the bottom of the barrel and I find that disrespectful.

There's a reason that many of us apes have chosen /r as our stomping grounds over GME threads at WeBull, StockTwits, and the others. Too many whiny bitches and paper hands.

Could just be me noticing the C-V/C-P action of some of the posts lately..but it's glaring.

It's like someone actually thought that it was a good idea to spend money on spreading disinformation in social media and flood the boards with true spam ass nonsense nonstop. That shits not gonna work and that just more money lost on their part. Fucking idiots. We're apes, we're not stupid, we're not selling no matter how many sellout.

Think of it like the death throes of an animal kicking and biting to save its life, all while having their jugular pinched in the jaws of a tiger...all you tigers have to do is hold and they bleed out. The animal keeps doing the same thing over and over, and every repeated act becomes less and less effective.
